Wasef Bey Ghali, one of the great leaders of the Nationalists is loved by all classes of the Egyptian people. Many services to the Egyptian Cause are attributed to him by the natives.

Among others, he writes most impressive articles in the leading French papers, under most fiery headlines, such as the ENGLISH ATROCITIES IN EGYPT, criticising the maladministration in the Courts, the Finances, the Army, etc., and enumerating the injustices wrought by the British in the Valley of the Nile. Some have read articles to this effect in the LIBRE PAROLE of April last.

Ghali rented a special advertisement board in one of the main thoroughfares of Paris, where he posted, in big characters, notices in English and French about the atrocities committed by the English. These posters attract the attention of all passers-by.

Many assert that this publicity brought the Egyptian Question to the notice of all, and made the author famous. It is even said that the automobiles of dignitaries and of the Representatives of the Powers stop before these posters.
